Since 1981, when Frank Shields hosted the first Annual Dinner of the Year, Raymond Davidson has been an integral part of Power Ten. A few years ago Raymond retired from Doubleday & Co. and now lives in Santa Cruz, California. For years his sketches have appeared in The New Yorker - and still do. He designed our invitation, and up until this year, with the exception of a year here and there, has penned the invitation text. His payment: a Brooks Brothers Oxford, button-down shirt. With gratitude and esteem, Power Ten New York dedicates its 14th Annual Dinner of the Year to Raymond Davidson.
